I was walking on Grand Street in Soho and I happen to stumble upon a very interesting installation by Spirit Tours. Spirit Tours is a collaboration between Dave Hardy and Siebren Versteeg. There are two rooms; the front room has a large installation that is almost finished made with logs. The back room has a fortune telling skull that lights up when you hit a specific button, which was inspired by the discovery of an enormous abandoned fiberglass mini-golf course skull. It is a unique machine that gives you three words, by lighting up single letters and can also answer a yes or no question. This installation is held at Recess Activities which is located on 41 Grand street. Here is the link to the artists who created this unique installation www.spiritbeans.com.
